Did you know that:

1. Hemp can be used to make almost anything, including food, houses, clothes, furniture, and gas.
2. People can be sustained by hemp, and it is incredibly good for the environment.
3. Hemp lasts for a very long time, and has been used for a very long time. Hemp has been found in many historically significant places.

Not only do I believe this lifestyle is possible, but I would love to be a part of it. Because hemp has so many uses, beyond just being good for the environment, it is easy to be sustained by it. I also believe that this lifestyle is not only possible in the future, but is already being created now. Idaho has the first ever house made of hemp in the United States. As soon as hemp becomes legal, the US can start living a life fueled by hemp, such as the lives others have been living for quite some time. I think it would feel amazing to know you were living a sustainable life, growing the resources that are the main part of your lifestyle. If hemp is so amazing, why don't we use more of it? I think it is possible that people are afraid of the things they might lose if the significance of hemp is realized. Let's help save our planet, today!
