WHAT

One thing that we want to do more than anything is to insure that all girls all over the world have an equal access to education.

WHY

By educating girls, countries can increase their economic growth and families would be better nourished. Educating girls can also help to save lives. Maternal mortality rates drop as well as the mortality rates of their children. They are also less likely to get HIV and get married against their will. Finally, by educating girls, we can reduce 59.6 gigatons of carbon emissions.

HOW

We can begin our journey to provide education for everyone by first, raising awareness. It is important to do so as the educational inequality is not well known. If we were able to, our next step would be creating programs to effectively teach girls across the globe. Then, we would travel the world, implementing these programs in schools or creating schools especially to combat the inequality of education for girls. In addition to that, we would help create schools that are closer to families to reduce the time and distance it would take for them to reach. This would help make going to school easier and convenient. The truth is, we can do this. Starting with us, we can stand together and combat education for girls, and combat climate change and pollution. We can and we will.
