My Story

- So today i woke up and had an exam. It was brutal. Brought my bag along and put my red bull can in it and a banana peel. I then carried around my bag to the gym and left it outside the gym cause food is not allowed in there. I went home then and ate lunch and put my cheese crackers box in bag along with shrimp bag. I then went throughout my day and walked around campus and met with two people who wanted to know more information. I basically asked them a couple questions about food waste at that point and on the following slides I will explain...

Klaire

This is Klaire. She feels food waste is bad for the environment, a waste of money, and waste of resources. She wants to promote composting to stop this from continuing. She herself is working on eating fresh fruits and vegetables faster so she doesn't have to throw them out and cause food waste.

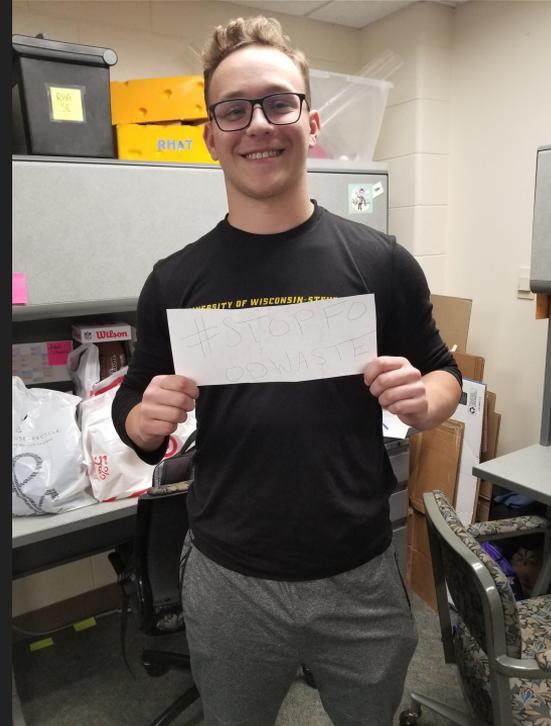

P.S. this is Klaire holding up a sign that says
#StopFoodWaste

Aidan

This is Aidan. He says that food waste is a huge issue within our society. He feels we need to start eating all of our food and stop wasting it. He himself is working on not wasting candy when offered to him by giving it to someone else.

P.S. this is Aidan holding up a sign that reads #StopFoodWaste

My Collections

Here is a Banana that I ate that could be used to compost

Here is a redbull can, Italian Ice cup, Cheese Cracker box, and Shrimp bag which all can be recycled

Avoid Waste

Banana

- To avoid waste of this, I have a compost bin that is specifically for foods that I can compost including egg shells, coffee grounds, etc.

Red Bull Can

- To avoid waste of this, I have a recycling bin with me at my apartment, or find a local recycle bin on campus to put this in

Change Today

The change I did today was finding people and telling them about how they can recycle and what they use to compost in the residential halls. Spread the word today to the local community and hope to see the action tomorrow.
