[Day 15 Wellness]

Sharing my Gratitude- A letter to my dad

How's going daddy, hope you are doing well.

This is Pei-Yin, one of your children.

You know what, I try to be like you and not like you. I would like to be a Chemical Engineer like you and work in a famous company. However, after you pass away, I would like to help you to share people the beautiful world, ask them to look up and enjoy why we are here. I don't want to work in a famous company. I want to help more people. Dissipating the poverty, do not waste your silence quit to the capitalism.

Thank you for your rearing for many years. I am happy to have you in my life.

A strong man with patient, stubborn and irritate. Remembering your smile, your odor with essential oil and you're snoring even I could feel the vibration when we slept in different level. However, you devoted yourself to giving us a magnificent house; you took care of Dobby, a cute male poodle and you share the experience of your life. I feel grateful to your engagement of our old house renovation which let us can study in a comfortable room till graduated.

Last thing, I know I might not a good son, and always talkback with unmature and without empathy's opinion. However, you share the solution in silent and action. Everything you did without ask for feedback, and I am sincerely glad to have you in my life. Although there is no "catch you later," I still want to make you proud of me. Please don't forget to join my graduation ceremony, I know you will be there, I can feel it as usual.

Sincerely,

Your son.

I cried, I smiled. There are too many things need to say. I am also really thanking you for raising this activity. I choose to upload the last video I took with my dad and my dog. They were friends. Sometimes I am wondering if my dad wants someone to accompany him. In fact, I am wrong. My dad has his parents there, he can be cuddled in their arms. I would be the one who start my new journey by myself.
