Greener Day 11: For today's greener challenge, I completed the Project Hero Soil Quest and realized how much of a positive impact I could have on soil health by doing simple tasks like planting a tree or encouraging my dad (who loves to garden in our backyard) to switch to organic pesticides and fertilizer. Today, I also had the chance to visit a restoration farm on Bethpage New York! The farm was surrounded by agroforestry, which helped prevent too much wind and sunlight from damaging the soil. The farmer there explained how they specialize in rebuilding topsoil and improving overall quality and quantity of their soil. He also mentioned their use of all natural nutrients for the soil. This led to their crops being healthy, tasteful, and delicious! Let's all take one step to building healthier soil because soil is the core of our ecosystem and provides us with so much 🌱💧☀️🍀🐾
