

Name: Brigitte Elohim-Pinas
Username: brigitteelohimpinas
School: Anton de Kom Universiteit van Suriname

The reaction of this person when I was reading the letter was emotional and thankful. This made us both feel overwhelmed and loved.

Reflecting on this experience I can say it taught it would be fun to do and I did expect it to create a nice moment, but in fact it was actually more than that when it happened. Seems that you just can't predict completely how this will go and how the feelings and all will be. I had a long letter but it was as if every sentence only said I love you.

<https://www.instagram.com/p/CyrzH9IL3ND/?igshid=MmU2YjMzNjRlOQ==>

brigitteelohimpinas

Sara(1983), Mom (1961), Randy(1980), Jeremia(2002), me (1986)

Forever on top

You are the first person who knew about my existence, and even immediately genuinely worried about how it would be funded. The joy of your third child on the way, made you seek help to make my day. No matter strong advices to abort me because my father hadn't yet matured enough to support me and you already had a son and a daughter, you decided that I also was worthy to be a keeper. Just the fact that you did not cut off my life although every one would be glad if you did, always gives you that special throne in my life to sit. The impact that these facts you did to keep and save my life have on me, are the reason I am thankful for you eternally. Very often I cry when I just think how easy it was for you to just get rid of my life, and so I respect you for knowing how difficult keeping me would be and still taking that dive. This alone is so much to be grateful for, And every time it overwhelms me more and more.

Growing up as a child I remember you being tensed to me, and I figured out you didn't want anyone to be bothered by my flaws or even for them to see. Grown up I hear the opposite, people experienced that you could just not tame "that kid". I put one and one together and the outcome is that both observations are true, that you were strict to me to form me while protecting me from others because of harm they could do. That was a difficult place to be in as a mother with a child from a father that was hated by your loved ones, and I respect you for juggling through it while making sure that I was protected all along. This impacts me in such a way that I keep empowering women in the place that you were with me in those days, because I wish that just like these women have me now also you could have someone like me to go with you on your way.

Nevertheless I am grateful to see you are no longer in financial need, because by God's grace you have more than enough for yourself and many others to feed.

Liked by turninggreenorg

brigitteelohimpinas One person who is there for you from the womb is a big blessing. Thank you so much mom.

@turninggreenorg #PGC2023

turninggreenorg Great Job! 🌍💙

brigitteelohimpinas

I saw you always having a vegetable, herbs and fruit garden and having chicken and ducks, Just to eat healthy, save money and even sell all of this to make extra bucks. What you saved by not needing to buy and what you earned from selling was more than enough, and so because of your impact on me I learned from you to always be tougher than life's tough. You managed all this and we always had a full green plate, even now your methods are internationally up to date. Food waste management should have been a course you created, everything I learn about it you already educated.

2/4

Remembering how you were working fulltime as a teacher, at home as a tailor and giving tailor courses for small fee to help others, selling pickled fruits and other sweets, Helping yourself and your children without a man's help and still helping others with their needs.... It made a pledge to myself to help where I can and never to sit and wait for help but roll up my sleeves and use my hands. The impact you have on me is the reason why at secondary school I already wanted to have a job, and even now I can't fully understand when a woman in financial need never does anything to earn her own but sits and waits for money from her children and or a man. I always talk about how you made it happen no matter the matter without a man, and empower them to see what is simple to start with because they can.

You never stopped studying because you knew that higher education is a great help, and even as a mother without help from a man and living in rental houses, working fulltime and doing all your hustles you went to higher education every afternoon. When I now pursue my higher education as a mother it is because of your own determination that I have seen. Your impact on me is the empowerment that if I put aside all circumstances and just do what I can do, I will have success, favour and get it done because I got impacted by you.

When I was sick you cooked a nice okra soup, and every year you made sure that well-looked-after in the classroom I stood. Growing up you always told me that in anger I should be still like you, and afterwards I can decide in a calm mood what to do. Still relevant is this advice today, it helps me to walk away from unnecessary drama and further my God-given way. This impact you have on me is part of your legacy, You are a marvellous mother who's guidance is still relevant currently.

Liked by turninggreenorg

brigitteelohimpinas One person who is there for you from the womb is a big blessing. Thank you so much mom.

@turninggreenorg #PGC2023

turninggreenorg Great Job! 🌍💙

brigitteelohimpinas

It made a pledge to myself to help where I can and never to dream that I can help others up my sleeves and use my hands.

The impact you have on me is the reason why at secondary school I already wanted to have a job, and even now I can't fully understand when a woman in financial need never does anything to earn her money but sits and waits for money from her children and or a man.

I always talk about how you made it happen no matter the matter without a man, and empower them to see what is simple to start with because they can.

You never stopped studying because you knew that higher education is a great help, and even as a mother without help from a man and living in rental houses, working fulltime and doing all your hustles you went to higher education every afternoon.

When I now pursue my higher education as a mother it is because of your own determination that I have seen.

Your impact on me is the empowerment that if I put aside all circumstances and just do what I can do, I will have success, favour and get it done because I got impacted by you.

When I was sick you cooked a nice okra soup, and every year you made sure that well-looked-after in the classroom I stood.

Growing up you always told me that in anger I should be still like you, and afterwards I can decide in a calm mood what to do.

Still relevant is this advice today, it helps me to walk away from unnecessary drama and further my God-given way.

This impact you have on me is part of your legacy,

You are a marvellous mother who's guidance is still relevant currently.

Every cent you have is clean, fair, honest and good, from you I learned that dishonesty was fast and fell but honestly walked step by step and in the end stood.

I can go on for months writing you this letter my dearest beloved honorable and wonderful mom, so let me just say that I pray you stay around your current age at least twice as long.

I have so much plans for the both of us and all of us together, so I know God will bless us to have those double days with each other.

May this impact you have on me be Gods blessing to you, and may you feel fulfilment, joy, strength and freedom for the second half of your life in all you do.

I never heard you raise your voice to a man or saw any drama, even though our life was not a "whole" family and you were a struggling mama.

Liked by turninggreenorg

brigitteelohimpinas One person who is there for you from the womb is a big blessing. Thank you so much mom.

@turninggreenorg #PGC2023

turninggreenorg Great Job! 🌍💙

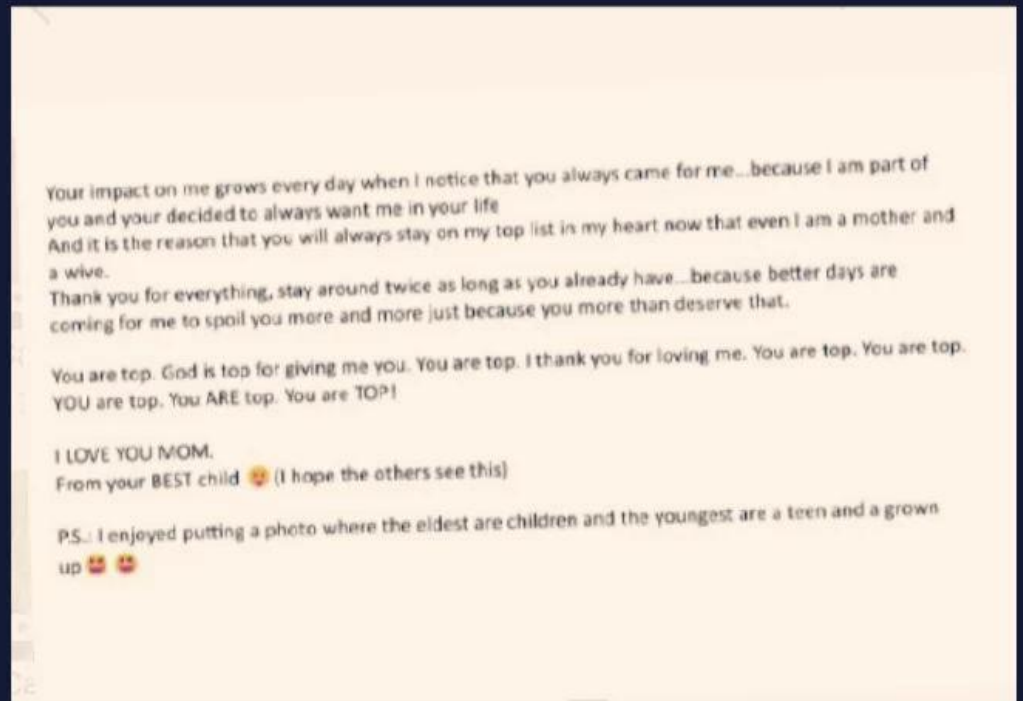

brigitteelohimpinas

4/4

Liked by turninggreenorg

brigitteelohimpinas One person who is there for you from the womb is a big blessing. Thank you so much mom.

@turninggreenorg #PGC2023

turninggreenorg Great Job! 🌍💙

