Shri Narendra Singh Tomar is India's Minister for Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare. I agree with many of his views creating funds for small scale farmers and to promote sustainable practices through incentives. This is why in my video I created my own plan based on some of his principles in using incentives and goals to support small scale farmers. In the future, I hope to draw more attention to his policies and share how US adoption of Indian policies could lead to a more effective transition to sustainable agriculture and overall productivity.
