What else do I have to do today? Wait, PGC starts today! And here I am stuck in the same cycle: buy, task, repeat. So what's the real cost? Every choice that we make has an impact on our clothes, the food we eat, and our everyday habits. This is the cycle we are stuck in, consuming then we need, producing more then we can control, and pretending that it is harmless when it is costing us our future. Now I have too choice ,click purchase and use more unsustainable material and stop caring about the consequences or we can fight to make a difference. The goal that we believe that best embodies our overall journey is a journey that represents responsible consumption and production. Project green challenge starts today and this time I am ready to change.
