

Name : MD. Shahriar Nasif

Username : ssj_nasif

School : Kushtia Islamia College, Kushtia

Caption :

Instead of “hope,” Dr. Ayana Elizabeth Johnson speaks of possibility—and that changes everything. Hope can feel passive, like waiting for change. But possibility? It is alive, urgent, and within our hands.

☞ To live as if we love the future means living differently right now.

It looks like planting seeds not just in the soil, but in our choices, our communities, and our policies.

It looks like treating the ocean as family, protecting its life as fiercely as our own.

It looks like refusing to accept the story that collapse is inevitable, and instead writing a story where justice, regeneration, and care are our compass.

For me, living as if I love the future means:

Choosing reusable and rejecting single-use convenience.

Speaking up for climate justice, even when it’s uncomfortable.

Creating art, action, and community that remind us that this world is still worth fighting for.

We are not powerless. Every act of care is a ripple. Every possibility we nurture multiplies into the future we will all share.

Future in our hands,

Love writes the world possible

Roots reach, waters rise.

Let’s not just hope. Let’s act. Let’s create. Let’s love the future enough to fight for it. ☞☞

@turninggreenorg @5gyres @onlyone

#PGC2025

Instagram Post link : <https://www.instagram.com/p/DPIViljgZSc/>

Pic :

Instagram

Home

Search

Explore

Reels

Message

Notification

Create

Dashboard

Profile

More

Future in our hands. Love writes the world possible.
Roots reach, waters rise.

@turninggreenorg @5gyres @onlyone #PC2025 #ClimateAction #LoveTheFuture

the_origin_wcb

the_origin_wcb Instead of "hope," Dr. Ayana Elizabeth Johnson speaks of possibility—and that changes everything. Hope can feel passive, like waiting for change. But possibility? It is alive, urgent, and within our hands.

To live as if we love the future means living differently right now.

It looks like planting seeds—not just in the soil, but in our choices, our communities, our policies.

It looks like treating the ocean as family, protecting its life as fiercely as our own.

It looks like refusing to accept the story that collapse is inevitable, and instead writing a story where justice, regeneration, and care are our compass.

For me, living as if I love the future means:
— Choosing reusables and rejecting single-use convenience.

View insights

Boost post

♡ 🔍 🗑️

Be the first to like this

17 seconds ago

😊 Add a comment...

Post

Sustainable Style Journey

31°C Rain showers

15:26 09.10.2025

POSSIBILITY

*Future in our hands. Love writes the world possible.
Roots reach, waters rise.*

@turninggreenorg @5gyres @onlyone #PC2025 #ClimateAction #LoveTheFuture