A woman with glasses and a braid, wearing a light-colored patterned shirt and blue jeans, stands in the center of a large, ancient stone doorway. Her arms are outstretched, touching the sides of the frame. The doorway is made of massive, carved stone blocks. In the background, other ruins of ancient structures are visible under a cloudy sky.

• Why go again?

Today, I am pursuing my Bachelor of Fashion Design at the International Fashion Academy, Paris, an academic environment that continually pushes me to refine my craft and expand my awareness of fashion's responsibility toward people and the planet. Within this program, I have learned to approach design not solely as a creative pursuit but as a strategic tool for cultural storytelling and systemic change. My decision to rejoin PGC stems from my belief that the challenge's immersive, action-oriented framework offers an unparalleled opportunity to deepen my expertise in sustainable practices while sharpening my intellectual and creative capabilities. One of my primary professional goals this year is to integrate the sustainability insights gained from PGC into the development of my upcoming CAST-X | Made of Street AW26 collection. This project is more than a seasonal release; it is a narrative on resilience, loyalty, and cultural identity, inspired by street communities yet grounded in environmental responsibility. My intention is to incorporate low-impact materials, apply circular design principles, and explore innovative production models that minimize waste while maintaining the integrity of the brand's aesthetic. PGC's emphasis on informed consumption, systems thinking, and climate leadership aligns perfectly with the direction I am taking for this collection.

MY FAVORITE QUOTE FROM OUR CONVERSATION

WE AREN'T 100% SUSTAINABLE YET

BUT WE ARE ABOVE 60%

IF WE CAN ALL JUST TRY

A LITTLE HARDER AND BETTER EVERYDAY

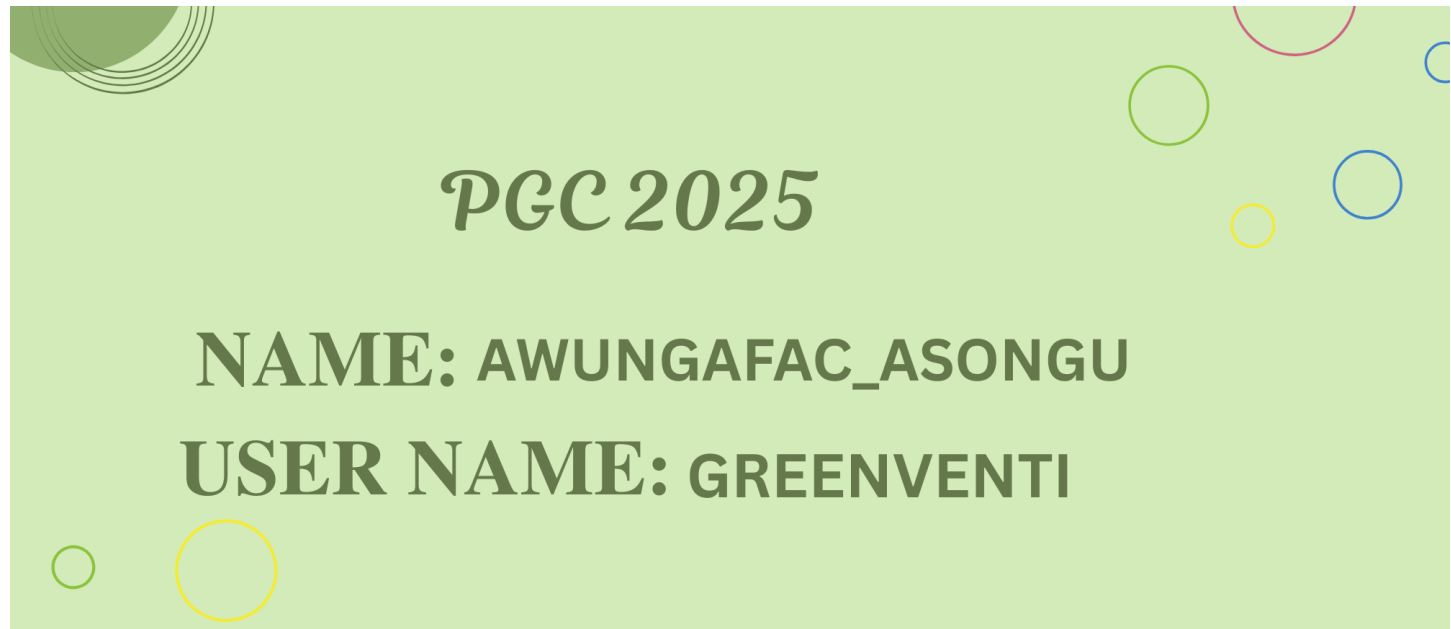

THEN IT'S REALLY GOING TO BE A WORLD WITHOUT END

AT LEAST THREE THINGS THAT INSPIRED YOU ABOUT THEM.

HE'S BOLD AND RISKY STEP.
